

Predicate Adjective or Not?

A predicate adjective is an adjective that follows a linking verb and describes the subject of a sentence.

Example: The rose smelled sweet.

Sweet is an adjective, and it follows the linking verb smelled. It describes the subject rose.

---

Below are sentences with adjectives. If the underlined adjective in the sentence is a predicate adjective, write P in the blank. If it is not, write N.

_____ 1. She became angry when she saw the bully.

_____ 2. I am hungry.

_____ 3. The little boy ran home.

_____ 4. The water in the tub became cold.

_____ 5. The large crowd heard the band.

_____ 6. My mother felt cold last night.

_____ 7. That dog is not the old man's dog.

_____ 8. Her sister made purple cupcakes.

Predicate Adjective or Not?

A predicate adjective is an adjective that follows a linking verb and describes the subject of a sentence.

Example: The rose smelled sweet.

Sweet is an adjective, and it follows the linking verb smelled. It describes the subject rose.

---

Below are sentences with adjectives. If the underlined adjective in the sentence is a predicate adjective, write P in the blank. If it is not, write N.

  P   1. She became angry when she saw the bully.

  P   2. I am hungry.

  N   3. The little boy ran home.

  P   4. The water in the tub became cold.

  N   5. The large crowd heard the band.

  P   6. My mother felt cold last night.

  N   7. That dog is not the old man's dog.

  N   8. Her sister made purple cupcakes.