

Week 4 SPELLING Homophones - Alike But Different

Homophones are two words that sound alike but have different spellings and meanings. It is sometimes helpful to use a mnemonic, or memory trick, to remember the different spellings of homophones. For example, hear means to process sound or information into meaning. Notice hear has the word ear in it; the part of the body that processes the sound. Use that to remember the way hear is spelled.
