

Sentence Diagramming: Compound Predicates

When you diagram a sentence, you put the compound predicate in a bracket connected to the conjunction on a dotted line.

Example: We trimmed and watered the garden.

Diagram each sentence below.

1. The old car smoked and sputtered.

2. Students asked questions and listened carefully during the class.

3. They ate, laughed, and talked at the party.

4. Many people visit Rome and enjoy the historic sites.

5. Clara watched a long movie, rode her bike, and called a friend.

Sentence Diagramming: Compound Predicates

When you diagram a sentence, you put the compound predicate in a bracket connected to the conjunction on a dotted line.

Example: We trimmed and watered the garden.

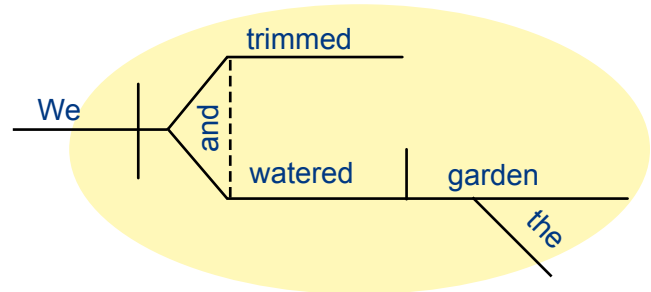

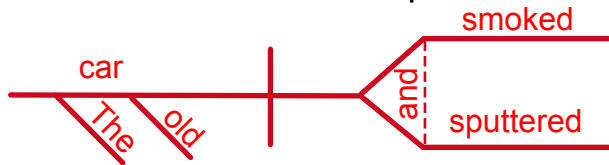

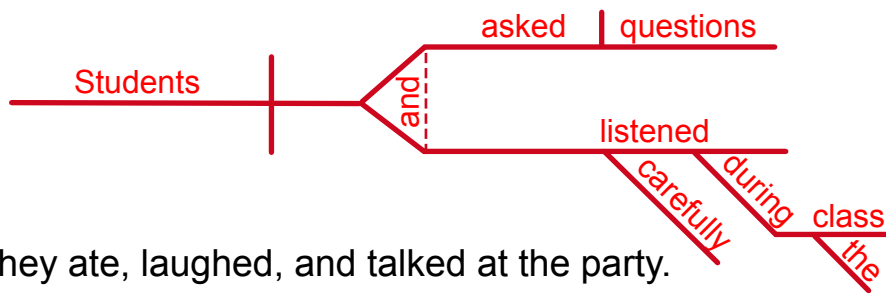

Diagram each sentence below.

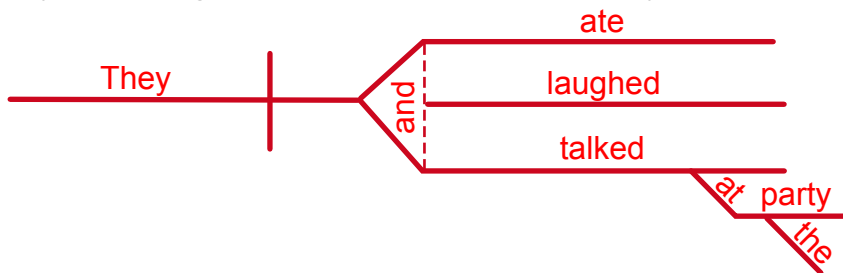

1. The old car smoked and sputtered.

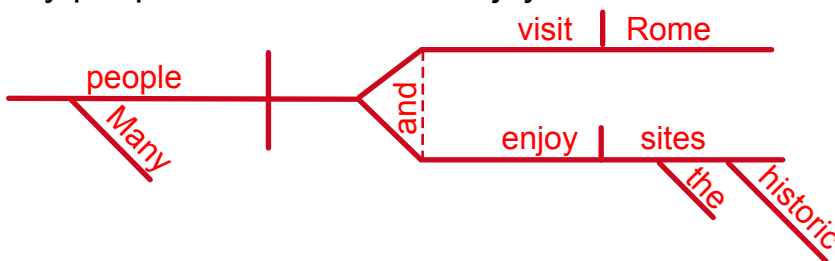

2. Students asked questions and listened carefully during the class.

3. They ate, laughed, and talked at the party.

4. Many people visit Rome and enjoy the historic sites.

5. Clara watched a long movie, rode her bike, and called a friend.

